LIBRARY GETS JAZZED:

WRECKHOUSE JAZZ AND BLUES BRINGS MUSIC TO A.C. HUNTER LIBRARY

Proving that you can never experience too much music, Wreckhouse Jazz and Blues (WJB) has made another successful musical contribution to the A.C. Hunter Library. On May 7th, during an evening of live jazz, the organization donated 100+ CDs to enrich the library's audio collection.

Wreckhouse Jazz and Blues (WJB) is more than an organization that produces one of St. John's most unique summer time music festivals. WJB has a commitment to cultural enrichment and musical education in our community. This donation is the second installment of an ongoing relationship with the A.C. Hunter Library. Hundreds of CDs are now available for the public to borrow free of charge.

From world music to the blues, WJB receives a phenomenal mix of music every year from talented musicians across the world who are eager to participate in the Wreckhouse International Jazz and Blues Festival. While not everyone can participate in the festival, WJB makes it possible for their eclectic sound archive to be available.

In true WJB style the donation included live music from Brad Jefford on guitar and Josh Ward on bass. The audience indulged in the fine music, refreshments, and a few WJB prizes while celebrating another significant community contribution from the organization.

In its second year as Wreckhouse Jazz and Blues, the organization is excited to contribute to the community, increase its fan base and most importantly produce a mind-blowing summer festival that will truly reflect the energy of Wreckhouse force winds. St. John's will have to brace itself for a storm of jazz and blues events during the 2009 Wreckhouse International Jazz and Blues Festival from July 14-19th at multiple venues across the city. Some very hot acts from across the continent will be blowing in to town to wow audiences along with our incredible local artists.
